Many taxpayers are unaware that they may be eligible for additional and substantial tax rebates on their medical aid and medical expenses if they, their spouse or one of their kids have a mild to severe medical condition.

WHAT QUALIFIES AS A DISABILITY?

- Medical conditions affecting a person's physical, mental, auditory, intellectual, communication or visionary capabilities
- Children that attend special needs schools or who require facilitators to assist them in mainstream schools
- Conditions can range from mild to severe

HOW MUCH CAN I CLAIM?

Rebate can range from R1000 to up to R100K per annum depending on the amount spent on

- Medical aid expenses
- Other expenses such as special schools, equipment or facilitators

HOW DO I APPLY?

1. Contact Stratfin to assess your eligibility
2. Sign an agreement with Stratfin protecting your confidential information
3. Stratfin will then calculate the additional rebate and process the claim on your behalf
4. If approved by SARS, the rebate will be paid into your designated account

WHAT WILL IT COST ME?

- No costs are charged unless the rebate application is successful
- If successful, Stratfin charges a success-based fee on the rebate amount awarded

Testimonials

Having worked with various tax practitioners over the past 18 years, I can honestly say that the team at Stratfin knowledge of SARS tax benefit submission processes is first rate. Thanks so much for your assistance in getting the rebate and quick turn-around!
